

Bedroom Drawers

Next to your bedroom closet, your dresser drawers are the most critical storage space in your bedroom. How neat you keep these drawers can often determine how much time you will waste each day putting yourself together.

If you share a bedroom, designate separate drawers for each person. Allocate items among drawers by putting like things together and the least frequently accessed items in the bottom drawers. Next add dividers for items such as panties, bras, socks, pantyhose and jewelry so that you can save time and find these items with ease. You can choose from soft padded lingerie boxes to spring loaded dividers which can be used to create a customized drawer.

Tip: Place a fabric softener sheet or cotton balls sprayed with your favorite perfume in your bra and panty drawers to keep them smelling fresh.

Tip: If you like to wear pantyhose under pants, keep a few pairs with inconspicuously placed runs. Use a permanent marker to write an "X" on the waistband and store them separately from your good ones.

Tip:

Hangers can ruin sweaters' shape, so fold them up and store them flat, grouped by color and season in a deep dresser drawer.

Tip: Have you ever had a great idea or thought in the middle of the night that kept you awake for hours? Keep a pen, small pad of paper and a flashlight in your night table drawer so you can jot your thoughts down and get back to sleep.

Jewelry Safekeeping

Don't let dust cloud the brilliance of your jewelry by keeping it in open-air displays and earring trees. Keep your jewelry contained and organized inside a drawer. Now you can turn any drawer into a personalized jewelry chest. Our unique practical Jewelry Stax organizers feature modular trays that stack and slide, fitting any drawer. Soft burgundy velvety liner protects your valuable items from being scratched.

Tip: Place a small bottle of jewelry cleaner and a polishing cloth right in the drawer with your jewelry for a quick shine and polish.
